K: About six years ago, I started travelling to Singapore. This wasn't something I was particularly excited about as I had spent a couple of days there in the '90s on my way to India, and it had struck me as being sterile. But years later upon return, I began to explore the markets and the hawker stalls of the city. That was when my love affair began with the flavors of Indonesia. And this desire led Jan and me to Indomania. As I was playing the obnoxious role of "master of Indonesian cuisine," Jan was gurgling with virginal pleasure over every one of the 13 dishes we ate.

imbibe / devour:

heineken

sumpias

urap urap salad

rijsttafel java—13 dishes in all including:

eggs in curry sauce

braised beef in spicy coconut sauce grilled snapper in banana leaf grilled breast of duck with balinese spices
